

Sharing your Global Experience with Employers

Kimberly Fox serves as associate director in the College of Engineering Career Resources & Employer Relations. Prior to joining Penn State in 2003, Kim worked as a chemical engineer in manufacturing, where she also served as a recruiter at Penn State career events. Kim is a Penn State alumna and completed both co-op and internship experiences while obtaining her degree. During her time at Penn State, Kim has worked closely with many students, giving advice on job search strategies, creating professional development opportunities, and managing career activities.