

Ultimate Guide: Study Abroad and Your Career

University.

Erika Brewer serves in the International Programs Office for the Grainger College of Engineering at the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign (UIUC) as an academic advisor and coordinator of ZJUI Programs. In her role, she facilitates outgoing programs to Asia and Australia and facilitates incoming exchange students from the dual-degree partnership known as the Zhejiang University, University of Illinois Joint Institute. Additionally, she strengthens the partnership by providing support for students enrolled in the ZJUI program as they engage and fulfill their requirements on the UIUC Campus. She earned her bachelor's degree from Augustana College where she studied abroad in Vietnam and Hong Kong and earned her master's degree in college student personnel from Western Illinois

Hannah Dougherty is an academic advisor and coordinator of International Programs for International Programs in Engineering in the Grainger College of Engineering at the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign (UIUC). She coordinates programming for virtual global experiences, faculty-led and the office's social media while also advising students. She holds a bachelor's degree and a master's degree from UIUC where she studied abroad in both semester and faculty-led programs in Europe and Latin America. In 2018, Hannah received a Fulbright U.S. Graduate Award at the University of Waikato in New Zealand.

Lauren Stites serves as an associate director in Engineering Career Services. She's an energetic communicator that brings passion and a proven ability to motivate and empower others to take action towards their career goals while providing resources to encourage informed decision-making. She has strong experience with preparing candidates for careers with employers of all sizes and over a decade of experience with personal branding, career coaching, and preparation of early-career talent for the job market.